CHATEAU DE LA FONT DU LOUP BLANC

2021

JEB DUNNUCK

Honeyed peach, orange blossom, and some minty, floral notes all emerge from the 2021 Châteauneuf Du Pape Blanc, a medium-bodied, beautifully balanced, elegant white that still brings plenty of texture and richness. I like it today, but it should evolve gracefully for at least 4-5 years.

JEB DUNNUCK

Lightly hued, the 2020 Châteauneuf Du Pape Blanc nevertheless has good intensity and depth in its aromas and flavors, offering lots of tart pineapple and tangerine fruits as well as spice, sappy herbs, and a kiss of chalky minerality. Bright, almost racy, yet pure and precise on the palate, I love its overall balance as well as length. It will put on weight with a year of bottle age and should age gracefully.

2019

JEB DUNNUCK

The 2019 Châteauneuf Du Pape Blanc from Anne-Charlotte reveals a vivid light golden hue as well as a lively bouquet of ripe lemons, salty minerality, white flowers, and a kiss of honeysuckle. It's not a blockbuster, but it's nicely balanced and has a beautiful sense of freshness, medium-bodied richness, and a clean, classy style that's going to be a joy to drink over the coming 4-6 years.

CHATEAU DE LA FONT DU LOUP BLANC

2018

A largely barrel-fermented blend of 35% each Grenache Blanc and Roussanne with 15% each Bourboulenc and Clairette, the 2018 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc features scents of pencilshavings and grapefruit. It's medium to full-bodied and silky in texture, then folds in notes of citrus rind on the finish.

JEB DUNNUCK

The 2018 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc offers more sliced apple and pear notes, with some attractive salinity and minerality. Fresh, juicy, and lively on the palate, it's an enjoyable effort that should keep for 2-4 years. This cuvée is a blend of 35% each of Grenache Blanc and Roussanne, with the balance 15% each of Bourboulenc and Clairette, all aged mostly in old barrels, with a small amount in concrete.

CHATEAU DE LA FONT DU LOUP BLANC

2017

The 2017 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc is full-bodied but boasts a seemingly paradoxical set of flavors in a narrow, citrusy band from lime zest to passion fruit. It then turns briny on the finish. Drink it over the next couple of years for its freshness.

89/100

JEB DUNNUCK

The 2017 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc is cut from the same cloth and has classic minerality as well as notes of caramelized apples, brioche, and spice. It's rich yet fresh at the same time, with a medium-bodied, vibrant, balanced style that will keep it drinking nicely for 4-5 years, and I suspect even longer.

CHATEAU DE LA FONT DU LOUP BLANC

2016

Plump and round in the mouth, the 2016 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc is a blend of 35% Grenache Blanc, 35% Roussanne, 15% Bourboulenc and 15% Clairette. It shows a lot of broad fruit flavors, ranging from orange sherbet to pear and guava, ending soft and easy. Drink it young.

JEB DUNNUCK

A terrific white from the appellation, the 2016 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc is clean and pure, with classy notes of citrus rind, white flowers, lime and crushed rocks. Lean and crisp, yet with substance and length, it's impeccable balanced, has outstanding purity and a great finish. It's going to shine on the dinner table.

CHATEAU DE LA FONT DU LOUP BLANC

2015

The 2015 Châteauneuf-du-Pape Blanc is a fabulous blend of 35% Grenache Blanc, 35% Roussanne, and the rest an even split of Clairette and Bourboulenc. It has a distinct saltiness as well as lots of minerality, white flower and citrus blossom on the nose. These carry over to the palate where the wine is medium-bodied, elegant and supple, with crisp acidity, and plenty of texture and fruit. I'd drink it over the coming couple of years, but I've no doubt it will evolve for longer.
